makes a compelling case for a more inclusive definition of success.

Interviews with twenty-six female role models at the University of Cambridge, and contributions from a hundred more, bring alive the achievements and challenges women experience and the effect gender has had on their careers.
The book and accompanying website offer insights for individuals and organisations, to stimulate a debate about how to bring about more inclusive working practices.

“By exploring these inspirational stories, this book reminds the reader that talent and excellence can be found in every walk of life.”

Professor Sir Leszek Borysiewicz, Vice-Chancellor, University of Cambridge

Book available from Amazon or via equality@admin.cam.ac.uk